

WHINY FEMINIST OF THE MONTH

Laura Bates (again)

J4MB presents its October 2014 'Whiny Feminist of the Month' award to Laura Bates, the founder member of The Whine Club.¹ She wins it for her brazen response to a challenge by <name redacted>, a Brunel University student, on national television. During our video clip² of the exchange (2:38 – 3:50) she stated:

I think it's really very damaging when, on a national platform like this, you try and suggest that a national figure, a widely accepted and repeated figure like the figure that over two women a week are being killed by a current or former partner, is incorrect. I think it's very dangerous to go around suggesting that statistics like that aren't true. That is absolutely the official figure.

That is absolutely not the official figure³ yet she still refuses to retract her lie. Does she have no shame?
