Post-conference relaxation in Harry's Bar – not its real name – a large public house in Central London, location TBA. It's known as Harry's Bar in memory of Angry Harry, the legendary British men's rights advocate (MRA) who some MRAs met for the first and last time there, just months before his untimely demise. He was looking forward to this conference. Let's raise our glasses to this inspiring man, who influenced so many in the men's rights movement.
