

GORMLESS FEMINIST OF THE MONTH

Natalie Collins

J4MB presents the February 2015 'Gormless Feminist of the Month' award to Natalie Collins, a young feminist whose website¹ appears to have nothing to say about the 40% of victims of domestic abuse who are male. Apparently no prominent feminists were available to debate the issue of sexual consent on the flagship BBC television programme on ethics, morals, etc., The Big Questions.² Ms Collins – whose mannerisms were those you'd expect of an excitable child – repeated the lie that 85,000 women a year are raped in the UK, the same lie which led to Laura Bates's second 'Lying Feminist of the Month' award.³ After Mike Buchanan pointed out this fact – at 5:09 – Ms Collins responded with this inane remark:

You're so kind, Mike!

J4MB has no plans to be kind towards liars.
