Rod, you consider Julie Bindel "excellent"? Until now I've been an admirer of your work.

Bindel is a radical feminist who makes no effort to hide her hatred of men. She cares only about female victims of male violence, and has made a career from writing about it, whilst ignoring male and female victims of female violence.

Women are more likely to be abused by female partners than by male partners, according to official statistics:

<https://j4mb.org.uk/2022/12/09/are-women-more-likely-to-be-abused-in-lesbian-or-heterosexual-relationships/>

The Partner Abuse State of Knowledge Project \(PASK\) published in 2013 had this headline finding:

"Men and women perpetrate physical and non-physical forms of abuse at comparable rates, most domestic violence is mutual, women are as controlling as men, domestic violence by men and women is correlated with essentially the same risk factors, and male and female perpetrators are motivated for similar reasons."
