

Daily Telegraph 17.8.23

"Why isn't Starmer leading the charge on this egregious miscarriage of justice?"

telegraph.co.uk/news/2023/08/17/why-isnt-keir-starmer-leading-charge-miscarriage-of-justice/

Keir Starmer, Greater Manchester Police, DNA, Crime, Labour Party

Comments

The Telegraph values your comments but kindly requests all posts are on topic, constructive and respectful. Please review our commenting policy.

MB

Join the conversation, Mike Buchanan

ALL COMMENTS 8 NEWEST

Someone is typing

MB

Mike Buchanan · JUST NOW

"Why isn't Starmer leading the charge on this egregious miscarriage of justice?"

Because, like all politicians, he reliably and relentlessly dances to the feminists' tune, and did so as DPP. Alison Saunders was only the most obviously feminist DPP, while her successor Max Hill is just as bad, happy to end the "trawling" of social media which has been the only evidence available to clear many innocent men of rape charges. Liam Allan being perhaps the most famous article.

This is, of course, symptomatic of a criminal (in)justice system which is brutal towards men and absurdly lenient towards women. One of many issues covered by William Collins in his masterly book, "The Empathy Gap: Male Disadvantages and the Mechanisms of Their Neglect". He calculates, using only official statistics, that 77% of rape allegations made to the police are false. The ebook costs under £5.00.

Mike Buchanan

JUSTICE FOR MEN & BOYS

<http://j4mb.org.uk>

REPLY LIKE 0

WW

William Webb · 2 MIN AGO

Sir Kneel was far too busy sat balancing on the fence to concern himself with legal stuff

REPLY LIKE 3

RT

Rodger TheDodger · 3 MIN AGO

The general public has seen a string of rape cases where,

1. The police and CPS have been utterly dishonest.

2. The prosecution have refused to allow the jury to see information about the complainant that would almost certainly persuade them to acquit.

3. Complainants who have deliberately lied to try to get an innocent man sent to prison, or at least make his life hell, have suffered no punishment. They almost never do.

This follows from the political directive "We must get more convictions", as opposed to "we must

Advertisement

Telegraph

WINE CELLAR

Plus free delivery

SHOP NOW

More stories

Fury of the silent majority is driving a global Right-wing counter-revolution

Anger at 'stupid' fisherman pictured casually standing next to crocodile

'Crash coming', says Big Short investor who predicted 2008 crisis

'My fiancé wants me to go on a Wedding Diet – should I call off the Big Day?'

Revealed: British Museum curator of 30 years accused of stealing artefacts

'Highly sexualised' drag queen competes on BBC's Celebrity MasterChef

Type here to search

18°C Partly sunny 20:48 17/08/2023

Because, like all politicians, he reliably and relentlessly dances to the feminists' tune, and did so as DPP. Alison Saunders was only the most obviously feminist DPP, while her successor Max Hill is just as bad, happy to end the "trawling" of social media which has been the only evidence available to clear many innocent men of rape charges, Liam Allan being perhaps the most famous article.

This is, of course, symptomatic of a criminal (in)justice system which is brutal towards men and absurdly lenient towards women. One of many issues covered by William Collins in his masterly book, "The Empathy Gap: Male Disadvantages and the Mechanisms of Their Neglect". He calculates, using only official statistics, that 77% of rape allegations made to the police are false. The ebook costs under £5.00.

Mike Buchanan

JUSTICE FOR MEN & BOYS

<http://j4mb.org.uk>