The most diastrous thing to have been embraced by academia in the past 60+ years is feminism. Every feminist narrative is demonstrably one or more of the following:

a baseless conspiracy theory a fantasya liea delusiona myth

Sadly (for its subscribers) Unherd continues to feature many feminist contributors and no anti-feminist ones. Professor Janice Fiamengo and Bettina Arndt would make excellent new contributors. I won't hold my breath...

Get rid of DEI statements attached to research grants.

Reduce PhD student numbers by 50% (at least in my institution).

Support the remaining PhDs to tackle big questions not the current salami slicing

Stop the p hacking – it is discrediting academia and we all know its happening such is the pressure on citations/reviews.

Reinstate the Higher Education Freedom Act as originally passed in parliament; an important signal of intent.

Well, come the day, Farage won't have far to look to save a few quid.

Academics waxing fat on this public largesse had better make hay, as the sun won't be shining quite so brightly in 4 years time.

What I find totally mind-blowing is how progressive activists have so utterly captured every institutional facet of western democracies. The Woking Class stranglehold is ubiquitous, toxic and relentlessly destructive.

What an excellent and sad eye-opener.
